Wood Species & MDF

Embrace the organic beauty of natural hardwoods or the smooth aesthetic of paintable MDF. Each cabinet is sealed with a satin or semi-gloss top-coat to protect against daily wear. Consider painted MDF as an alternative to maple.

Paintable MDF is a great alternative to maple. Painted MDF gives a stylish, consistent look that is durable and more resistant to warping, expansion and contraction than solid hardwoods.

MDF

The rustic nature of this light brown wood showcases pin knots, open and closed knots, and mineral streaks that are embedded in uniform straight-grain patterns.

KNOTTY ALDER

The unique cutting of this oak creates close-knit vertical grain patterns that display a textured and figured appearance. Oak ranges in color from light tan to brown.

QUARTERSAWN OAK

HICKORY

MAPLE

Maple's smooth texture and uniform grain patterns have a visible color range from creamy white to varying shades of brown, and turn amber with age.

CHERRY

The esteemed look of cherry ranges from light pink to varying shades of brown, and deepens in color with age.

OAK

Arching grain patterns are typical of the classic oak species. Natural wood colors range from light tans to dark reds and browns.

Bold, prominent grain patterns are characteristic of hickory. Additional features include: burls, pin knots, mineral streaks and small sound knots.
